About Us

hackPHS is a high school hackathon in Princeton, NJ that brings a 24-hour hackathon experience to 300+ high schoolers.

In 2019, hackPHS had over 50 project submissions, both hardware and software, from over 300 attendees coming from over 40 schools around New Jersey. Our gender ratio was 30%, 12% above the average in CS related fields. This year, we want to keep this momentum and continue growing. We're looking to achieve 350+ attendees and a 50% gender ratio.

We're looking to cater to a diverse group of hackers of varying backgrounds and skills from all across the tri-state area. Check out last year's hackathon here:

What is a hackathon?

Not to be confused with the illegal form of hacking, hackathons are collaborative events for anyone with an interest in technology to build and share an original project over a 24-hour period.

Why sponsor?

Becoming a sponsor offers you the opportunity to make an impact on the programmers of the future. Many students are first introduced to computer science in high school, so you have the opportunity to access a large pool of students to both expand your consumer base and to promote valuable skills among the next generation.

Where will your money go?

Your money will go towards funding our venue, food, swag, prizes, and all the other costs associated with running a hackathon.

Other ways to help!

- Monetary donations
- Sponsor a meal
- Sponsor a mini-event at hackPHS
- Provide hackers with resources for the event
(e.g hosting, domains, hardware)
